PROGRAM

The Eagles Nest or Kehlsteinhaus brought to us by Jim Colabelli. Jim told us of the history of this engineering feat, how the road was built, the land being taken by Hitler because he wanted it, Hitler spent 126 million to accomplish this and then rarely visited it as he didn't like the elevator that took him up to it. It finally opened to the public in 1952 and is now a historic site and dining area in perfect splendor and views for miles of the mountains and of Berchtesgaden, Black Forest of Germany.

HAPPY DOLLARS

Chrissy said she will hide it in a fold of her wedding dress as if it were not for Kiwanis she would not be marrying the love of her life that she met at a TriK Weekend.
