Award History: Jean Dean died in 1990 during the time her husband, Joe Dean, was Governor of the Alabama District of Kiwanis. She faced her final illness as she had faced life for 66 years- with courage, humor and an unswerving will to help others-especially children. Proud of what Kiwanis does in communities across Alabama, she had looked forward to helping Joe increase that service in 1990-91. Confined to a wheelchair -on oxygen- just before he took office, she wasn't able to do much herself during that time, but was Joe's and Alabama Kiwanis' most avid cheerleader until she drew her last breath. Because she impressed Alabama Kiwanians during that time, the Alabama Kiwanis Foundation was requested to start an annual Jean Dean Courage Award in her honor. When the Foundation decided to do that, Joe Dean endowed the award for many years to come and it is presented at the District Convention every year.
