Greetings Friend!

Saving lives is an exciting and serious matter, and that is exactly what the Boys and Girls Home at Lake Waccamaw, NC has been doing since 1954. “I hate to think of what may have happened to me if it were not for the love and caring of those Kiwanians who provided support for their Kiwanis Cottage”, explained Mr. Gary Faircloth. Attendees at the Carolinas District of Kiwanis Conference in February were deeply moved and inspired by the personal testimony of Mr. Faircloth, now President and CEO of Boys and Girls Homes of North Carolina. He detailed how he, as a 15 yr. old youngster, was placed in what was at that time, back in 1964, the Home’s brand new “Kiwanis Cottage.” He remained a resident there through his high school years, graduated and went off to East Carolina University and on to a successful professional career. Now, he has returned to the Home as President and CEO to assist and support a new generation of kids!

While celebrating our 50th anniversary of support for the Boys and Girls Home, the Carolinas District established and promised to fund a $100,000 Legacy Fund, under the supervision of the Carolinas District of Kiwanis, designed to provide for the long term maintenance and upkeep of the B & G Home’s Kiwanis Cottage. Now, this year, I am challenging all Carolina Kiwanians to become involved in the completion of that promise. Through a series of fund-raisers and personal donations, we will complete the funding of the Legacy Fund. We need a lot of $ from a few, and a little $ from a lot of donors.

To that end, I am seeking financial sponsors as I walk the Arthur Ravenel Bridge over the Cooper River in Charleston while at our Carolinas District Convention in August this summer. Additionally, in the interim, if district leaders, clubs and any interested others would like to support our funding effort, I will be happy to participate in as many “walks” and fund raisers as possible. This is a promise that we are honor bound to keep. Please join us in any capacity, if you will! Kiwanians and non-Kiwanians alike may participate in this effort and make donations to the Kiwanis Cottage Legacy Fund.

Learn more about the Boys and Girls Homes Legacy Fund and how you can give here.

Take care, God bless and be well.

Artist, entrepreneur offers inspiration from adversity

By Paul Eggers (Printed with permission from The News Record and Sentinel)

For local artist, entrepreneur and philanthropist Larry Bell, the close of the Christmas season means he can finally catch his breath. As the owner of Larry’s House of Cards, Bell kept busy throughout the holiday run up, filling nearly 100 orders for his custom, handmade greeting cards from customers as far off as Florida.

“This has been my busiest Christmas yet,” he said while pasting together elements to create a classic Christmas card.

Typically, Bell crafts his cards to match his customers’ requests or his own inspiration. This time of year, however, the spike in demand means Bell assembles some of his product from manufactured cutouts. “Christmas is the only time I do my cards out of a kit,” he explained as he worked away inside a home office in the Little Pine community. “I don’t make anything ordinary. I customize my cards to whatever my customer wants.

“I have a stamp here that says, ‘Larry’s House of Cards – handmade cards, your design or mine.’ Whatever my customer requests, I deliver. It is something I take a lot of pride in.”

That attitude has helped Bell build a bit of a following. “One woman has bought cards from me every Christmas since I started in 2013,” he said with pride.

This success building a loyal customer base as the head of a small business is Bell’s latest achievement in a lifetime overcoming incredibly long odds.

“I was born two months early and that’s the reason, I believe, I’m in a wheelchair with cerebral palsy,” he said matter of factly in a break between card construction. “The doctors looked at my parents the day I was born and he said that they better say goodbye because I wasn’t going to make it to midnight. I was born at 9:32 in the morning. And like I said, I just turned 41.”

While some outsiders may only see Bell’s diagnosis, he has never let it define his expectations for himself. “When I was in the rehab place (in NC), I guess because of my disability, they didn’t think I would have the mental capability to go through school. So from the time I was three until the time I was 11, they kept me in the first through third grade. When I went to Del Rio, Texas, they tested me and I was able to skip the fourth and fifth grade completely. From sixth grade on, I stayed with my class and graduated high school in 1995.”

Today, that same spirit drives Bell to lead an engaged, active life. “I stay busy all the time,” he stated.

On weekends, Bell can be found doing, among other things, coaching basketball for a Special Olympics team and serving as vice president for a regional Aktion Club, a service-oriented organization for adults with disabilities. He also worships at a Hendersonville church each Sunday.

Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays see Bell volunteering at the Beacon of Hope, often greeting customers at the Marshall non-profit’s thrift store. On Tuesdays, Bell pitches in with a digital archive project at Mars Hill University’s Ramsey Center. Inside a small office, he logs pictures from as far back as the 50s for the school’s internal archives. “This place is just amazing, the history of this school is amazing. Going through these pictures, it’s like going back in time.”

As for Fridays, that’s dedicated to his passion: his card-making business. “This is where the magic happens,” Bell said at the start of his weekly shift. Alongside an assistant, Bell goes about assembling his holiday orders.

Larry’s House of Cards is backed by a microenterprise program run by the state’s Department of Health and Human Services. According to the owner of Western Carolina Direct Care Services, who declined to be named because he serves as caregiver for adults in state guardianship, the supported-employment model allows Bell to operate his own business. Any profit the business generates returns to the state, offsetting Bell’s social security benefits.

Bell is able to bring to life unique cards for every occasion. “I love providing cards for people who need them,” he said. The assistance Bell needs to complete tasks most would consider part of their basic, almost automatic everyday routine, highlights both his ability to overcome most any obstacle and his connection to all those who offer him care.

“I wish I could do more stuff for myself,” Bell reflected, searching for the right words to describe his unique situation. “With certain things, I have to depend on the staff here to help me do things like take a shower or go to the restroom. If I could do more of those things on my own, I would. But there are people here who really care about the individual. Everyone who works her are the ones that I thank God for.”

Robert Purinton, a Florida native who moved to Madison County less than a year ago to be closer to family, assists Bell on Tuesdays at Mars Hill University. “I love my job,” he said of his experience helping Bell and two other clients facing similar diagnoses. “I was a painter and a sandblaster. I was running around with real roughnecks, and now this. It’s been a shock and I love it so far.” continued on page 5

Signature projects

Service is at the heart of every Kiwanis International club, no matter where in the world it’s located. Each year Kiwanis members stage nearly 150,000 service projects, devote more than 18.5 million hours of service and raise nearly US$100 million for communities, families and projects.

Signature projects provide valuable and needed service to a community. They elevate awareness of Kiwanis, engage current members and remind them why they joined Kiwanis. Additionally, signature projects can increase membership. Don’t forget to invite and involve potential new members in your club’s next signature project.

A signature project is one that includes all of the following signature project criteria:

- Recurring: At a minimum, the project should take place annually.
- Brand enhancing: The project should be designed to elevate the Kiwanis brand in the local community with opportunities for public relations activities, such as Kiwanis naming rights, media mentions, etc.
- High impact: The project should have a demonstrable positive impact on the community; this impact should be measurable in monies raised, children served, flags hung, playgrounds built, etc.
- Membership focused: The project should support opportunities to strengthen membership and develop new partnerships.

TIP: A good question to ask when identifying a signature project is “what community activity or event is my club known for?”

Does your club already have a signature project? Send it to leahcdo@gmail.com

Ready to get started? Find the signature project toolkit here.

Where’s the K?

The district would like to start displaying photos of the Kiwanis symbol which has been prominently displayed on each of your club’s projects. Is there a Kiwanis Cottage in your town? A Kiwanis bench in your park? A Kiwanis playground? We don’t want to miss yours!

Send us your pictures so we can proudly share your K.

Workshops, lectures and team-building activities take place over the course of the weekend, providing opportunities to grow in confidence, make new friends and learn skills that can be taken back to the school community. Positive interaction with other Key Leader “graduates” can offer continuing reinforcement, encouragement and growth of leadership skills.

COSTS:

Students: $250 - registration fee  Student Facilitators: US$175 - registration fee  Adult - Committee member or chaperone: $115 - registration fee

Legacy of Play Contest

For the fourth time, Kiwanis International is teaming up with Kiwanis partner Landscape Structures to give one Kiwanis club US$25,000 of playground equipment. The Legacy of Play Contest celebrates our shared beliefs that investing in your community through legacy signature projects is important to the success of a Kiwanis club. Plus, Landscape Structures’ emphasis on inclusive play is also important to Kiwanis because it highlights our goal to bring play to all children.

It’s easy to enter! Between April 13 and May 14, simply submit your club’s playground proposal on the Legacy of Play Contest tab (coming soon) on Kiwanis International’s Facebook page, then ask for support via online voting starting May 16. A new look

Steven Hadt

Kiwanians will want to look at the "member resources" section to find material to help them run their clubs, serve the community and raise funds to help children. To get into that section, click the member resources link in the black bar at the top of any page on the site.

Kiwanis.org has a new look and feel. The updated website will be easier for users to find the material they need to help kids in their communities. But, most importantly, it's mobile optimized. Users will be able to use the website in a way that's friendly to the device they're using.

On the home page, you'll notice it is much cleaner with fewer calls to action. You'll also find the most recent Kiwanis stories, Kiwanis news and news releases we've published. From the home page, you can get to the "news" section to see more news about Kiwanis; the "about" section to learn all about Kiwanis; and the "clubs" section to learn about all the clubs in the Kiwanis family. Those pages were created as a marketing tool for prospective members and partners.

The videos have been posted on various digital platforms and continue to be embedded on club websites and Facebook pages daily.

All the video, radio, print and digital assets are available for club, division and district use. Find the resources at Kiwanis.org/brand.

Kiwanis Children's Fund achieves BBB accreditation

By meeting key standards of board oversight, finances, results reporting and fundraising appeals, the Kiwanis Children’s Fund achieved accreditation by the BBB Wise Giving Alliance. This accreditation signifies that the Children’s Fund is deserving of donor trust as they are a well-run nonprofit organization.

The BBB Wise Giving Alliance (BBB WGA) is the only comprehensive charity evaluator in the United States—assisting donors in making sound giving decisions. Donors know they can trust a charity if it is accredited by the BBB WGA. Their broad standards go beyond what the law requires and dives deeper than other charity monitoring organizations.

Each BBB WGA charity report process involves a rigorous review using 20 holistic BBB Charity Standards, interaction with charity officials about corrective actions needed to address deficiencies, and quality control measures to ensure report accuracy. Thousands of charities have reports available to the public at Give.org.

Aktion Club had a great time at their MidYear Conference February 24 in Charlotte. The 49ers didn’t win their basketball game, but it was close. Mayland had the most attendees so each person received an Aktion Club glass and Advisor Deborah Houston received an Aktion Club reusable bag. Surry Community College performed a skit, entertained them with a song and led the group in a dance. Fun was had by all.

Kiwanis Club, Avery High Key Club and Community Members Clean Tufts Park and Wildcat Lake

By Bailey Faulkner  published with permission from High Country Press

Volunteers from the Kiwanis Club of Banner Elk, the Avery High Key Club and the High Country community gathered at Tufts Park and Wildcat Lake last Saturday to prepare the area for its summer activities. One of Banner Elk’s most popular recreation sites, Tufts Park and Wildcat Lake are likely to see an even higher volume of traffic this year with the closing of the Newland public swimming pool for this summer.

The Banner Elk chapter of the Kiwanis Club, a “global organization of volunteers dedicated to improving the world, one child and one community at a time,” selects one project per year to make the Banner Elk community a better place for residents and visitors alike. This year, the group recognized the need for a spring cleaning at the park and lake, which had accumulated a large amount of tree and leaf debris over the past months.

Expecting more visitors at the park and lake this year than in previous years when the Newland public swimming pool also offered a spot to cool off, the Kiwanis Club partnered with students from Avery County High School and other volunteers from the community to create a cleaner and safer environment for swimming, canoeing, fishing, picnicking and hanging out with friends and family. The Avery High Key Club was named a Distinguished Club at the Key Club District Convention in Durham last month, being one of only two of the 241 clubs in the Carolinas to receive the distinction.

Members from each of the groups worked together to collect truckload after truckload of leaves and downed branches from the park and the lake. By the end of the day, the team had removed countless limbs and numerous bags of dead leaves from the area.

Wildcat Lake, located at Hickory Nut Gap Road, is the central feature of Banner Elk’s 13-acre public access facility, which also includes a white sand beach, a swimming pier and a fishing dock. Adjacent to the lake is Tufts Memorial Park, which offers a bath house, picnic tables and three picnic shelters for the community.
