Ken Caryl Builders Club

Sally Kingman
 Ken Caryl Builders Club donated $600 to the school's pre-engineering program. The money was raised from the donated Box Tops for Education.

When General Mills launched Box Tops For Education in 1996, coupon clipping was a household norm, and the idea of cutting a cereal box top (redeemable by participating schools for 10 cents) made a lot of sense. Twenty years later, while coupon-clipping isn't so commonplace, Box Tops for Education are on more products than ever, and schools are benefiting from them.

Keep those box tops coming in. It makes a difference.

Action Center – New Executive Director

The Action Center Board of Directors announces Pam Brier as its next executive director. The organization provides an immediate response to basic human needs and promotes pathways to self-sufficiency for more than 20,000 Jefferson County underserved adults, children and the homeless each year.

As executive director, Brier will be responsible for ensuring the organization continues to serve thousands of underserved adults and children each year. She will lead staff, oversee volunteers, and run operations, policy, programs, community connections, development and the strategic direction for the organization.

Brier has more than 17 years of experience serving as an executive director for nonprofits including Beacon House and Baltimore Urban Debate League. She currently works as director of program operations at Women's Bean Project. She has an extensive background in establishing and implementing financially sustainable programs for nonprofits, as well as social work, fundraising and building partnerships.

Head Start – Lakewood ECE Program

Doug Blackler
Rescheduled due to inclement weather.

We will be applying linseed oil at the Lakewood Classroom on Tuesday June 5 at 8:30AM. This is a fun project and it helps the pre-schoolers. This Year Belmar Kiwanis is taking the lead on the project. They will need our help. It is a chance to work with several other clubs. It will take perhaps 3 hours if we have 10 people between the 3 clubs.

Airlife Memorial

Seven Kiwanians helped with the event. We helped with parking and misc. other duties. They had a lot of help from the medical community. The helicopters did not make a presence because of the weather.

Jeffcom 911

Last week, Jeff Streeter, Executive Director, and Jodi Malpass, Law Enforcement Operations Manager gave a presentation on the Jeffcom911 that we use in Jefferson County. The following is an article from the Denver Post dated March 18 which best gives a summary of their presentation.

"After years of planning, eight Jefferson County emergency response agencies have come together to adopt a new communications system designed to speed up help to residents and provide immediate backup for local agencies responding to a crisis.

Dispatchers from police departments and fire stations throughout the county will now be housed together in Lakewood as part of one singular entity known as Jeffcom 911.

Officials believe this will foster stronger channels of communication, reduce the risk of dropped calls and potentially save more lives. The mission of the merger is to streamline the response procedure when a 911 call is received.

Previously, if a Jefferson County resident dialed 911 to report a medical emergency, for example, they were connected to their city's police department, which took down pertinent information and then transferred the call to the appropriate fire station for dispatch of emergency responders. The call-taker at the fire station also asked a series of questions before sending help.

Now, dispatchers can call on each other from across the room instead of across the county. Jeffcom will have a total of 136 call-takers representing the eight member agencies, with 25-30 on the floor at any given time. The center is prepared to serve more than 600,000 residents and field approximately 18,000 emergency calls and 50,000 non-emergency calls each month.

Fourteen other, smaller county agencies will also be serviced through the new call center. The 14 smaller agencies are Edgewater, Lakeside, Morrison, Mountain View and Colorado School of Mines police departments, and Elk Creek, Fairmount, Genesee, Golden Gate, Indian Hills, Inter-Canyon, North Fork and Pleasant View fire districts. Highland Rescue Team Ambulance District also joined ranks with Jeffcom."
