Left, Charles Hadley and Jess went to The Cork restaurant on Thanksgiving Day. They said the portions of turkey served were small. Charles complained to the manager. Jess said the cranberries were good.

Dave Finlay distributed a report showing charities that the club donated to in 2015. The list was given for club members to examine in order to make decisions about whom to give to in 2016. December 4th is "Colorado Gives Day", where people are encouraged to give to charities via the web.

Arlene Devore gave examples of poor service she has received at other restaurants. Arlene went to Santa Fe, NM for Thanksgiving to visit her daughter's family. Her daughter and son-in-law have been looking for a different house in which to live for several months. They sold their current home and needed to vacate it in a month's time. Fortunately, they found and purchased another home. However, they will be staying in a motel for a while before they can move into their new home. Arlene and Wendy, her daughter, looked at a place where Arlene might live. Arlene may decide to move to Santa Fe to be close to the family.

Barbara Fink attended both of CU's past two football games in which they defeated Washington State and Utah universities.

Helen Hall said that if you go to the Flagstaff House restaurant, it helps to compliment the chef. The cook has to be away from the clientele, so he gets little recognition.

Helen said that her son and daughter-in-law saw the Steinway piano in Salt Lake City. They visited the Steinway factory in Estonia, NY. Ruby, her daughter-in-law, and Ruby's brothers received Fine Arts degrees in college, but needed to do other things besides play musical instruments to make a living. Jess commented there is a beautiful Steinway piano in Macky Auditorium. Helen said her brother sold the country club in Canada that he had built and developed. It sold for $ 36 million.

Dottie Imel noted the floor of the Community is nice. She wants to pick it up and move it to her place. Dottie ha a good Thanksgiving at Frasier Meadows. The food was excellent. Dottie said there is a displace of miniature buildings by Dept. 56 in the lobby at Frasier Meadows.
