Mark presented a check to Major Larson for $49,014, for our Salvation Army bell ringing efforts for 2016! Mark cited contributing factors: 1) our great community, 2) two extra days for the season, and 3) the willingness of store managers at King Soopers, Walmart, and Safeway to allow us to ring inside the vestibules of their stores during inclement weather. Thanks to these great stores from all of us!!

Major Larson thanked us on behalf of the Salvation Army, the men, women, and children that stay in their shelters, the after school program, and those that come in for food and energy assistance. Our efforts represent over 10% of Salvation Army bell ringing donations in the area. This money stays locally to help those that are in need. In closing, Major Larson said "God bless you, truly. You are men and women of integrity - I wish our country had more of you. They say it takes a village to raise a child. It takes people like you to make our society a much better place."

Kiwanis International recognized three members of our club with their Distinguished Member Award. Distinguished members qualify by participating in major projects with the club and by bringing in new members. RF Smith announced that the awardees were Steve Stephenson, Bob Hayes, and Tom Weyer. Congratulations!

The Rocky Mountain District conference is in Ft. Collins, from the 3rd to the 5th of March. Jane Erickson, the President of Kiwanis International is the keynote speaker. Rich Strom is coordinating her visit. Registration info is available at <http://www.rmdkiwanis.com/>. Not too late to sign up.

Mike Luginbuhl filled in for Dave Humbert, providing an update on the Super Bowl boards. He encouraged us to sign up for the open squares. Only one week left. If completely filled, the five boards generate $1,000 each, with $250 to the winner and $750 to the foundation. We filled in three boards and randomly selected numbers for AFC and NFC. Mike used this opportunity to compare Google "hits" between the New England Patriots and the Atlanta Falcons. Basically he found nothing for Atlanta, but hit a gold mine with New England "Deflategate." The Wells Report was an investigative report on footballs used during the AFC Championship game on January 18, 2015. Ever diligent, he uncovered many fascinating facts:

- It was 243 Pages, delivered in May 2015
- The data did not provide a basis to determine with absolute certainty whether there was or was not tampering as the analysis of such data ultimately is dependent upon assumptions and information that is not certain
- There was no set of credible environmental or physical factors that completely accounts for the additional loss in air pressure exhibited by the Patriots game balls as compared to the loss in air pressure exhibited by the Colts game balls
- Estimated cost of the Investigation and Report - $22M

RF Smith announced that Tony Trifiletti is the new executive director for the Foundation, as decided at the board meeting last week.

HAPPY BUCKS

Pete Peterson said in a couple of days, he and his wife Vicki will celebrate 47 years of "Yes Dear's." Hurray!

Rich Strom had a happy buck for the USAFA hockey team win over Army, 3 to 1.

Jo Carroll was happy for A-Team Bingo night on Monday, but he needed a register person. Jim Head volunteered.

Harry Brandon had a happy buck for Mary Kelly. She is a Naval Academy graduate along with other club members, and Harry worked with her at Pacific Command.

Tony Trifiletti added to the praises of Mary Kelly. She is a prized member of his instructors for the Rocky Mountain Youth Leadership Conference.

Tom Weyer offered to officially retire old American Flags at a ceremony to be held by American Legion Post 9-11 in June, on Flag Day. Tom is the Commander of Post 9-11 and invited us to join.

Paul Short shared some third grade Dictionary thank you letters with us. Paul gave Jim Taylor a Snicker bar since they delivered Dictionaries together - the "Mr. Awesome" award as testified to by third graders.

RF Smith had a happy buck for a membership application submitted by Shiela Ferguson of the The Resource Exchange.

Kiwanis Program - Jan 28, 2017
Ecotourism in Nepal with Air Force Cadets

Mary Kelly, PhD

Cadets Rebello, Laporte, Gray, Roberts, and Scarboro

Scribe: Bob Hayes

Dr. Mary Kelly presented a fascinating program on "Ecotourism in Nepal with Air Force Cadets" that was well received by our MHKC members. Mary is a graduate of the US Naval Academy and a retired Navy Commander with 21 years of service primarily in intelligence and base management. She is a best selling author and international speaker specializing in business and leadership development.

She's traveled to 40 countries, and on this trip to Nepal in the summer of 2016, she accompanied five USAF Academy Cadets (three men and two women), who were with her today. They delayed their original trip planned for 2015 because of massive earthquakes in Nepal in their intended travel area. This past summer they flew into Katmandu, the capital of Nepal to meet their guides and then went upcountry about an 8-9 hour drive into the mountains to a very remote village.

While in Katmandu, they witnessed the burning of the dead by the local Hindu's. They saw lots of temples there, both Buddhist and Hindu. There are over 30,000 Hindu gods.

They traveled upcountry in a Toyota Land Rover that carried a total of 9 adults, some riding on top of the vehicle. The roads up and down to the village were rock strewn and very dangerous. Many places they had to walk. Ninety percent of the country of Nepal is accessible only on foot. The scenery was unbelievably spectacular.

Before their trip the cadets did lots of preparation and study on the culture, geography, economy, and other features of Nepal. Travel there was a huge culture shock, the biggest probably being that human trafficking is common and accepted, particularly in the village they visited, but throughout the country too.

They spent a total of 10 days in Nepal, most of it in this remote village. They stayed in a guest house and lived and ate with the villagers in very primitive conditions. Average daytime temperatures were 100-114 degrees. It was always cold at night. There was no electricity except for a rudimentary solar based charging station for batteries and cell phones.

The food was not appetizing, and all five cadets were sick with intestinal issues. Mary never got ill-she had too many bugs from so many other countries. They slept on the ground in wet quilts and ate from a primitive kitchen with no soap, no sinks, and trash piled everywhere (you might not know when you need something later).

All the US travelers went to the river daily to bathe, which the locals thought odd.

The average earnings per person in Nepal are $689 per year. A Nepalese could sell one of their children for about $300, boy or girl but primarily girls. The group originally made contact with an organization in Colorado Springs called 514 which put them in contact with 514 people in Nepal who were working to minimize human trafficking. The average age of girls sold there is 5 to 14 years old, hence the name. The Nepalese love their children, but if they want to care for the rest of their family and feed them, they must feel they have little choice but to traffic their own children.

There was one 11-12 year old boy in the village who was responsible for overseeing all the remaining children in the village. The village had an orphanage and the children were locked into it every night so they were safe from surrounding wild animals (cats).

The team developed a marketing plan for 514 while there and worked to educate some of the village women to count and measure so they could learn to make coffee for foreign trekkers traveling through their area. They could sell coffee for one dollar per drink to these trekkers and raise considerable cash to possibly reduce the likelihood of having to traffic their own children. Most Nepalese drink tea and have to learn how to make coffee.

The team also constructed a large aluminum-paneled building with a crushed rock and concrete floor that the villagers could use in other economic ventures. Very few villagers spoke English, so communicating was a challenge.

All the Air Force cadets felt strongly that they had an amazing cultural experience and learned much on their trip, which will make them better officers and stronger leaders in the future.
