URINE: where you are when you aren't out.

RECTUM: nearly killed ‘em.

ABASEMENT: where the furnace is.

With next week being July 4th & picnics & such likely on your agenda....

IS it Ketchup or Catsup?

It's “ketchup”, even though the English sailors who brought the condiment back from Singapore in the 17th century didn't have the slightest idea how the word should be spelled. The original ketchup was the Chinese ke-tsiap, a pickled fish sauce. The Malays stole the name (ketchup) but not the base — they used mushrooms instead of fish.

Americans added the tomatoes, and Heinz's first major product, tomato ketchup, was launched (lunched?) in 1876. Since the Chinese, Malay, English, and American incarnations all began with the “ke” sound, most word purists would rather say “hopefully” indiscriminately than be caught dead spelling the word c-a-t-s-u-p.

And are you planning any “Gunnysack” races with your gang? And, do Gunnysacks have anything to do with weapons?

Nothing whatsoever. Gunnysack, imported into the United States around the Civil War, is an Anglicization of the 18th century Hindu-Sanskrit goni. What we now call gunnysacks were originally made in Bengal. At first, goni referred to the material (jute and hemp) that was used to make the sacks, and then to the sacks themselves.

What did goni mean in Hindu? “Sack.” That's right. Americans have been running “sacksack” races at picnics for over 100 years now.

MORE Puns for Educated Minds

11. Atheism is a non-prophet organization.
12. Two hats were hanging on a hat rack in the hallway. One hat said to the other: 'You stay here; I'll go on a head.'
13. I wondered why the baseball kept getting bigger. Then it hit me.
14. A sign on the lawn at a drug rehab center said: 'Keep off the Grass.'
15. The midget fortune-teller who escaped from prison was a small medium at large.
16. The soldier who survived mustard gas and pepper spray is now a seasoned veteran.
17. A backward poet writes inverse.
18. In a democracy it's your vote that counts. In feudalism it's your count that votes.
19. When cannibals ate a missionary, they got a taste of religion.
20. If you jumped off the bridge in Paris, you'd be in Seine.
21. A vulture carrying two dead raccoons boards an airplane. The stewardess looks at him and says, 'I'm sorry, sir, only one carrion allowed per passenger.'
22. Two fish swim into a concrete wall. One turns to the other and says, 'Dam!'
23. Two Eskimos sitting in a kayak were chilly, so they lit a fire in the craft. Unsurprisingly it sank, proving once again that you can't have your kayak and heat it too.
24. Two hydrogen atoms meet. One says, 'I've lost my electron.' The other says, 'Are you sure?' The first replies, 'Yes, I'm positive.'
25. Did you hear about the Buddhist who refused Novocain during a root-canal? His goal was to transcend dental medication.
26. There was the person who sent ten puns to friends, with the hope that at least one of the puns would make them laugh. No pun in ten did.
