As do other states that neighbor with one another, Montana and North Dakota have a dumb-jokes exchange going. Which is to say, Montana jokes make fun of North Dakotan activities and people and North Dakota does the same but targets Montana foibles and folks. Here's a sample of some of the put-on witticisms from either standpoint.

Q. What does it say at the top of a Montana/North Dakota ladder?
A. STOP!

Q. A wine list in a North Dakota/ Montana restaurant reads:

1. Red Wine. 2. White Wine. (Order by number).

The Doctor told the Montana/ North Dakota cowboy that his ailing wife would benefit from sea air. So, he went home and fanned her with a sardine.

Q. What did the North Dakota/ Montana cowboy say when asked why he always dragged around a log chain?

A. "I tried pushing, but that didn't work."

B.

Q. Why is the Montana/North Dakota space program in trouble?

A. The cowboy astronauts keep falling off the kite.

The weather in North Dakota/ Montana: Winter and Construction.

Q. How can you tell if a Montana/ North Dakota cowboy is level headed?

A. When the Snus runs evenly from both corners of his mouth.

The Doctor asked the North

Dakota/Montana cowboy if he'd followed his advice and drank lemon juice after a hot bath?
The cowboy replied: "By the time I got done drinking the bath, I was too full to drink the lemon juice."

Q. Why did the Montana/North Dakota cowboy buy a new pickup?

A. He couldn't keep up the payments on his old one.

Q. Why did the North Dakota/ Montana farmer plow his field with a steam roller?

A. He wanted to grow mashed potatoes.

Q. Why does the Montana/North Dakota cowboy smile every time there's lightning?

A. He thinks he is having his picture taken.

Q. How does a North Dakota/ Montana cattle rancher count his cows?

A. He counts their feet and divides by four.

Q. How do Montana/North Dakota cowboys lose 5 pounds?

A. They take a shower.

Q. Why can't North Dakota/ Montana cowboys raise chickens?

A. They plant them too deep.

Q. What is a North Dakota/ Montana symphony?

A. Three kazoos and a nose whistle.

Did you hear about the Montana/ North Dakota cowboy who heard that goats make excellent lawn mowers?

He tried a couple but couldn't teach them how to start the mower.

Did you hear about the Montana/ North Dakota cowboy who thought . high cholesterol, gluten free and lactose intolerance were religious holidays?

Did you hear about the North Dakota/Montana cowboy who went into the chicken coop and lost his wad of snooze? He thought he found it three separate times.

Did you hear about the Montana/ North Dakota cowboy who said he'd give his right arm to be ambidextrous?

Did you hear about the North Dakota/Montana cowboy who got stranded on an escalator during a power outage?

Q. What does a Montana/North Dakota cowboy call a camel?

A. A horse with bucket seats.

In a restaurant, a North Dakota/ Montana cowboy was asked, "Do you prefer red or white wine?" "It doesn't matter to me," said the North Dakota/Montana cowboy. "I'm color blind."

WARNING -GROANER...

King Ozymandius of Assyria was running low on cash after years of war. His last great possession was the Star of the Euphrates, the most valuable diamond in the ancient world. Desperate, he took the diamond to Croesus the pawnbroker. "I'll give you 100,000 dinars for it," said Croesus. "But it's worth millions!" protested the King. "Don't you know who I am? I am your monarch!" The pawnbroker replied, "When you wish to pawn a star, makes no difference who you are."

Did you know that a cow that gives no milk is udder failure?
